AOMCHS Receives Donation to Help with Log Cabin Restoration Providence Bank Sends Support to Alpharetta Old Milton County Historical Society Project

ALPHARETTA, GA (February 19, 2019) – Recently, Alpharetta Old Milton County Historical Society and Providence Bank teamed up to support the Log Cabin restoration project. The Cabin was built during the 1934-1935 school year on the Old Milton High School property by the Future Farmers of America (FFA). It is one of only two remaining FFA-constructed log cabins still in use today in the United States. To make way for a new Fulton County STEM high school, the Log Cabin was moved to future park property at 210 Milton Avenue across the street from the new school.

“Just as our community came together in the 1930s to help the FFA students construct the Log Cabin, it once again came together to save it. Thanks are due to the City of Alpharetta, the Alpharetta Convention and Visitors Bureau, Councilman Donald Mitchell, the construction team, and the many individual donors like Providence Bank without whom the Log Cabin could not have been saved,” said AOMCHS President Pat Miller.

“Providence Bank is a community bank and these types of local projects are exactly what we want to support and be a part of,” said Providence Bank President and CEO Brad Serff. “We’re happy to provide assistance for this project and can’t wait to see it completed in the near future.

Alpharetta Old Milton County Historical Society (AOMCHS) is guided by its motto "Preserving the Past, in the Present, for the Future." Its collections of Alpharetta and old Milton County historical and genealogical information have been recorded, archived, and kept alive at the historic Mansell House and Gardens, and are available for the public to view. The Society continues to grow and gather more historical material as it becomes available. AOMCHS is a non-profit 501(c) (3) organization and maintains an active role as the organization responsible for the collection, preservation, and dissemination of accurate historical information related to Alpharetta and old Milton County. For more information, visit the AOMCHS website.

Providence Bank is the only community bank locally chartered in the Alpharetta/Milton community. Established in 2006, Providence Bank offers a wide array of banking solutions that include personal and business loan and deposit products as well as the latest in mobile and online banking products.
